

Join Us for a Field Tour: Beaver-Based Restoration in Action

This short field tour will take us to local stream reaches where restoration efforts and natural beaver activity are working together—slowing water, building wetlands, and turning dry channels into thriving riparian corridors.

We'll visit several key spots to observe changes on the ground and talk about what it takes to support this kind of recovery on private lands. All are welcome—landowners, agency folks, curious neighbors.

Come with questions, boots, and a sense of curiosity. We'll walk the ground and talk about what's next.
